DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 2 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 2 and 8 are indefinite because of the word "type". Regarding claims 2 and 8, the phrase "synthetic-type" renders the claim(s) indefinite because the claim(s) include(s) elements not actually disclosed (those encompassed by "type"), thereby rendering the scope of the claim(s) unascertainable. See MPEP § 2173.05^(a)~~(d)~~.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-5, 7-11, 13, and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Cohen et al. (US 5,736,473). Cohen et al. disclose sheet or web materials that incorporate particulate materials (col 1, ln 11-13). The structure comprises fibrous materials such as textile fibers and super-absorbent materials (col 5, ln 21-30). The particulate material can include microcrystalline cellulose (col 6, ln 1-5). Sodium polyacrylate particulates were added to the matrix (col 14, ln 48-50). Waxes are also included in the matrix (col 3, ln 49). It should be noted that Cohen's fibers are being equated to Applicant's string material.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 6 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cohen et al. (US 5,736,473) as shown above. Cohen et al. disclose the claimed invention except for the teaching that the superabsorbent material is present by weight in the amount of between 5-90%, that the wax is present by weight in the amount of 10-85%, and that the channeling agent is present in an amount of between 2-40%. It should be noted that adding materials such as the superabsorbent material, the wax, or the channeling agent are result effective variables. For example, the amount of wax would directly affect the processability of the material. The amount of superabsorbent material would directly affect the absorbency of the material. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have used a composition having 5-90% superabsorbent material, 10-85% wax, and 2-40% channeling agent, since it has been held that discovering an optimum value of a result effective variable involves only routine skill in the art. In re Boesch, 617 F. 2d 272, 205 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980). In the present invention, one would have optimized these amounts motivated by the desire to create a composition having the desired absorbency, processability, and workability associated with the use of these additives.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure: Nakanishi et al. (US 5,767,176) is believed to be pertinent because it discloses a coating composition containing microcrystalline cellulose and sodium acrylate but fails to disclose a wax in the composition.
